As there has seemed to be something of an electrainty in the position of Hon. John J. Crittenden is the present campaign, and as he made a speech as mentioned in the besed line of this article—this only atomy speech of the campaign—we give such portions of it to our readers as will give a list idea of chaspiritand substance of the whole. He talked to the extent of half a column, about the party (Bell-Everstt,) being preduced by a high public necessity, and taking its stand between the possibility of the control of the process of saving the Union. He said if the Union party succeeded it would not be the triumph of a party but of the Union. See, Mr. Crittenden proceed to compare candidates.

Mr. Lincoln may be a very worthy, upright, and honest man. He married a Kentucky girl, and that is a wholesome similance (Lagakter and applause). I am told he is a Kentuckkan himself, which is another salurary flat. Mr. Lincoln may be a very honest worthy man; but in a political point of view, he must be regarded as the representative of the party that has made him its leader. He is the Republican leader; and like all politics the street of Agents celebration in Dayton. Compare candidates.

(Laughter and applause.) I am told be is a Kentockian himself, which is another salutary fact. Mr. Lincoln may be a very honest, worthy man, but in a political point of view, he must be regarded as the representative of the party that has made him its leader. He a the Republican leader; and, like all political leaders, he must obey the party that brought him into existence or be put down and crushed

H's election would create and continue a alarm that would keep the country agitated and unhappy, if not create an opposition and resistance to the government itself. It is greatly to be desired that he should not be greatly to be session that we should not be elected. It is hardly necessary that we should be forced to apprehend from Mr. Lincoln's election that the impulse which the anti-slav-ery feeling would receive therefrom, would go further than it has yet gone, and create still greater dangers to the peace and security of the South. This pervading apprehension would necessarily make his election a great

I know Mr. Doughas very well, ladies and gentlemen. From Mr. Doughas, personally, I should apprehend no danger. I have never been a Democrat, as you all know. (Applause). A frank, fair oppment of the Doughas crafte party, I have ever been found acting upon Whig principles, from the first to the last. (Increased applause). But I have known Mr. Doughas in the public conneils, and have acted with him. Although generally opposed, and especially apan. party questions, we have at times acted together, and particularly upon one momentous occasion, when we anted together in opposition to that inflamous Lecompton Constitution. (Deafening applause). Mr. Doughas was there making a great sacrifice to his sense of duty. (Applause). He was shreaking up the relations of a friends he was breaking up the relations of a long political life, he was sacrificing as flatter.

DOUGLASS, richias he was breaking up the relations of ong pelitical life; he was sacrificing as flatter ing prospects for the highest office in the Go-grament as any man in the country had, fully believe he did what he conceived to h his duty, and, in defiance of all opposition the rack of the President, offended friends and open focs, he noted like a man. (Tre-mendous cheering). He might have been mistaken in what he did, but that little diminmistaken in what he did, but that little dimin-ished the value of the act. He thought he was right, and he knew he was making a sac-rifice, and he was capable of making it, when he believed the interests of his coentry de-manded it. (Cheers). I can have no quar-rel with him; he is a Union man. (Cheers), And a Union man I can always trust, when I believe him to be sincere and in carnest, as I believe Dourlas to be. (Continued applease) believe him to be sincere and in earnest, as a believe Douglas to be. (Continued applause.)

Mr. C. proceeded: I have spoken not to compliment Mr. Douglas morely, I have spoken because I desire to give my testimony to his truth. I believe Mr. Douglas to be a patiot, and I know him to be a Union man by all the evidences that one public man can give another of his sentiments. (Applause). He is a generous, bold man, speaking what he thinks, and doing what he knows to be right. (Repeated applause). But I am opposed to Mr. Douglas. I am for Bell and Everett. (Immense applause).

Two negroes and a white man went into a drinking saloon in Cleveland, Thursday night, and after drinking created a disturbance. The ring-leader, a big negroe, was ejected, drawing a knife, struck at the saloon-keep er, but missing him, stabbed his white com-panion, a dissipated tailor of the city.
